

COMARCH

Comarch Document Signer

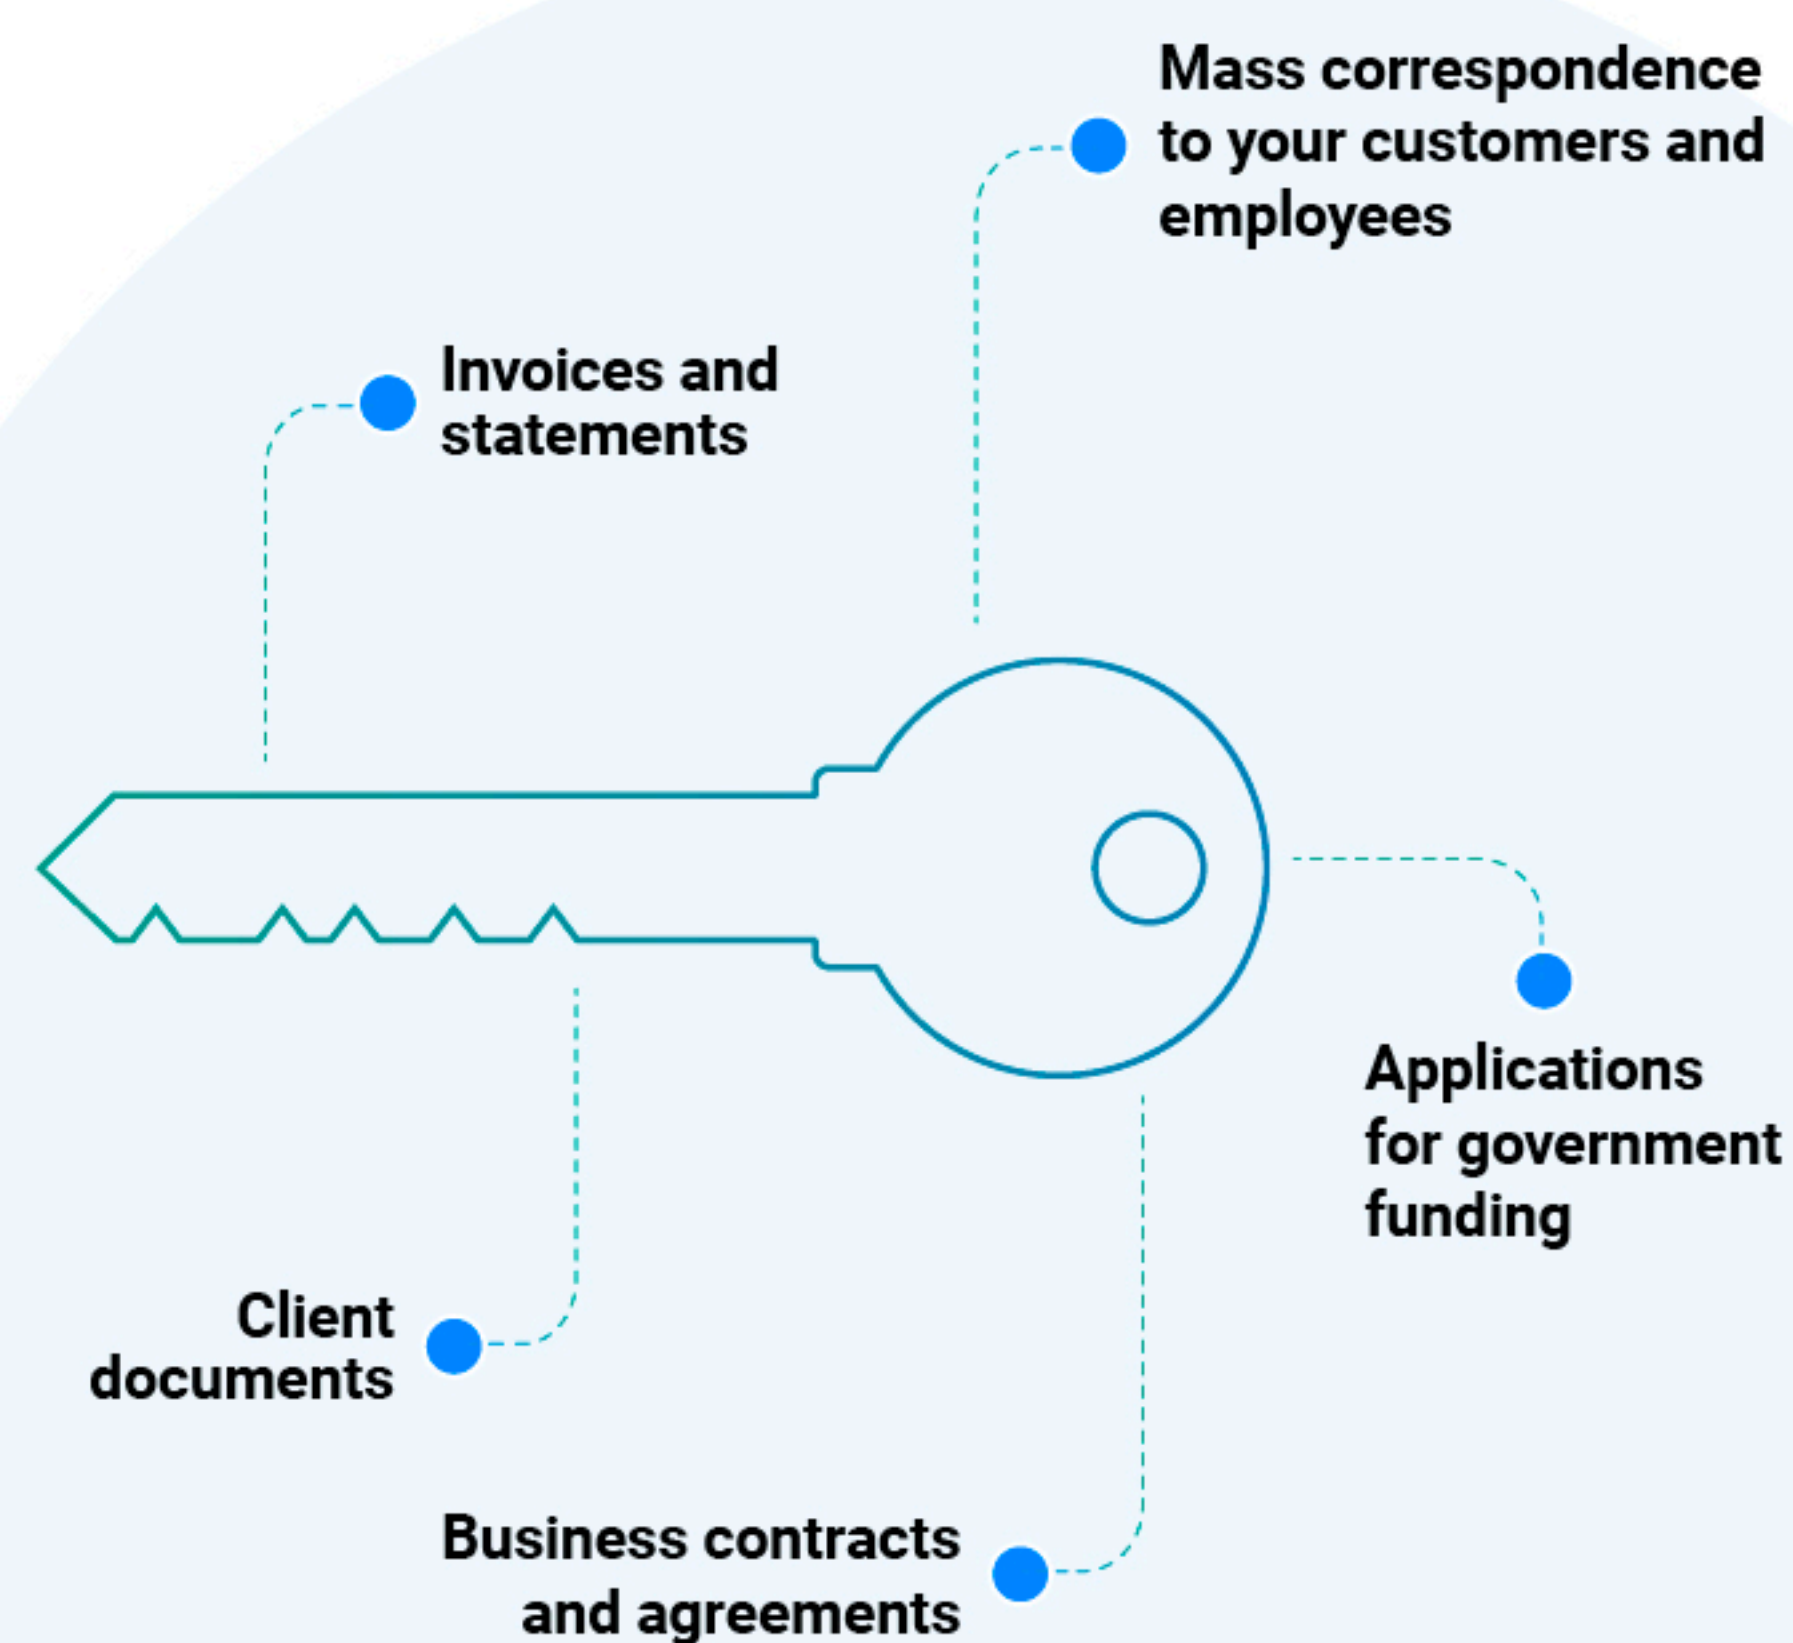

Automate document signing for your business, regardless of scale

Mass document signing within seconds

The concept of electronic seal is similar to the one of electronic signature. The difference is that the electronic seal is an evidence that a digital document was authorized by a legal entity, while the digital signature belongs to a natural person. Comarch Document Signer is a tool that allows to seal documents on behalf of your organization.

Reach maximum performance and sign documents online

Electronic seal security

Strong authentication – a certificate issued by a trusted third party and appended to the signature is proof of who actually signed the document. Identity confirmation is displayed in a PDF reader when opening the file

Data integrity – no changes can be made to a document after it has been signed

Non-repudiation – the authenticity of the signature is unquestionable – you're protected against document forgery

Key benefits for your organization

Top performance – hundreds of PDF documents signed per second

Time effectiveness and fewer repetitive tasks

Protection against digital fraud thanks to strong authorization and data integrity

Improved remote cooperation with your customers and vendors

Highest available security standards – authorization keys are stored in external Hardware Security Module (HSM)

Compatibility with 'PDF Advanced Electronic Signatures' (PAdES)

Cost optimization – our solution can be deployed on virtual machines

Convenient installation according to your needs – delivery in cloud or on-premise models
